Smiling Albino expands with three innovative trips in three countries

Smiling Albino (SA) <http://www.smilingalbino.com>, a Thailand-based adventure travel company, offers guests new adventure options in three countries.

In Nepal SA has launched an ultra-active adventure to compliment their successful nation-wide 'Nepal Grand Slam'. Their new, 13-day, 'Nepal Trek and Trail' features active components that are not all currently offered in a single trip within the country. "We've designed an active trip that is new to Nepal and offers active guests an opportunity to take advantage of a wide variety of activities that have made Nepal so appealing for the active traveler," says Coates. "Mountain biking, intense trekking, white water rafting and bungee jumping, all done in style, combine for the ultimate Himalayan adventure."

In Cambodia, SA has launched two new trips aimed at offering a new spin on Angkor Wat and area, as well as a deluxe historical sojourn in the capital of Phnom Penh. "We've spent a lot of time on the ground in Cambodia coming up with two distinct trips for people wanting to see this fascinating kingdom in a more interactive way. Guests ride boats, bikes, enjoy the finest hotels and contribute to local outreach programs," says Coates.

At their Bangkok headquarters, SA is unveiling a series of unique walking trips around the capital. "An entertaining walking trip through Bangkok was long overdue," says Fraser. "People don't think of Bangkok as a 'walking' city, but we've found ways to make it a fascinating way to explore the different layers of the city in a soft, methodical way, while avoiding the traffic and congestion so common in the capital." Designed as a way to offer repeat visitors to Bangkok something new and unique, SA's walking trips feature a variety of themes, such as old historical neighborhoods, inner-city mangrove-forested villages, and the mesmerizing lanes of Chinatown, to name a few. SA's new half-day and evening discoveries also offer the option to utilize Bangkok's mass transit system. "This approach has the potential to change peoples' perceptions about exploring Bangkok," commented Fraser. "You really can enjoy a comfortable eco-friendly outing in Bangkok mostly on foot".
